

Unified Divorce Overview

A Financially Safe, Emotionally Secure, and Forward Thinking Approach to Divorce

Divorce impacts your life for many years. The decisions you make, today, may echo for decades. You can co-create a healthy future or engage in a soul crushing, bank account draining battle. You can choose HOW to divorce, regardless of who ended the marriage.

Unified Divorce offers those divorcing an enlightened way to end their marriage. We encourage you to review this document and then visit our website to learn more: www.unifieddivorce.org

What is Unified Divorce?

The fundamental difference between Unified Divorce and other approaches to ending a marriage is, in a Unified Divorce, both parties use the same attorney. By using one attorney and a unique communication process, you can enjoy these benefits over other forms of divorce.

- You will likely spend less money.
- You can reduce negative impact on your children.
- You may experience less fighting, anxiety, and stress.
- You'll enjoy increased legal privacy during and after your divorce.
- You can create a holistic resolution that sets your family up for a healthy future.
- You can design an agreement that is fair, legally sound, and protects your rights.
- You will be more likely to stay out of court.

How does Unified Divorce work?

Once you've chosen to pursue a Unified Divorce and selected a certified attorney, you'll begin a 10-step process, designed to address all the legal issues required by your state. Also, your attorney will use a holistic communication process that will ensure the issues important to you and the members of your family are discussed and included in your final settlement agreement.

For specific details about each step of the Unified Divorce process, please visit: www.unifieddivorce.org

What should I do next?

You have three options

1. Discuss Unified Divorce with your spouse and decide if it's the right approach for your family.
2. Conduct additional research about Unified Divorce by visiting: www.unifieddivorce.org
3. Make an appointment with Teddi Ann Barry to discuss lingering questions and get started.

Contact Us Now for More Information

Call 720.722.0776 or email info@unifieddivorce.org

For information about Teddi Ann Barry, Esq, visit www.unifieddivorce.org

UNIFIED DIVORCE
One Family, One Lawyer, One Solution